A DRIVER of a Fifth street omnibus, named Lowe, yesterday morning, on a charge of reckless driving.

THE sum of $231,839 31 has been expended in the public schools during the school year just closed. In addition to this, the Board paid a loan of $43,000, making the total expenditure $274,839 31.

EDWIN J. ABBOTT, of Cleveland, desires to return thanks to the citizens of Cincinnati for their assistance to him on the 28th of June, when he was sun-struck; and particularly to Dr. Beck for prompt and kind attendance.

Finance Committee of the City Council, seem to be outvieing each other in spending the people's money. The one orders money to be paid as fees to an individual, the existence of whose office is at least questionable. The other recommended the payment of $500 for fitting up the Police Court, a job not worth $200; also the payment of $550 to the City Auditor for work for which he was not entitled one dollar; and lastly, awarded the city printing to the highest instead of the lowest bidder, the law implicitly requires. The City Council will have to negotiate another loan with Groesbeck & Co., if these gentlemen are allowed full latitude.

ABOUT as high-handed an usurpation of authority as we have heard of lately, is that of Judge Lowe of the Police Court of Cincinnati. By his order the Clerk of the Police Court has paid over to John L. Gano, a portion of fees claimed by him as City Marshal. It is a well-known fact to every body, including His Honor, Judge Lowe, that, however, worthy a gentleman Mr. Gano may be, he is not entitled to one dollar of fees until his tenure to the office is fully established by law. It is also well known that the office of City Marshal was abolished by a recent act of the Legislature, and that act (except by his Supreme Magnificence, Judge Lowe,) has not been declared unconstitutional, and is still a law upon the statute book. It is well known, to persons of all political creeds, that there is no more use for the office of City Marshal than there is for the fifth wheel of a wagon, and that every dollar that is paid to the gentleman who represents himself as that officer, is SO MUCH ROBBED FROM THE PROPLE.

SINGULAR AND SUCCESSFUL FORGERY .- A couple of successful forgeries were perpetrated yesterday morning, quite equal in shrewdness to those of Dubois and Hazlitt, although the sum realized was not so large as in either of the above cases. About ten o'clock in the morning a young man purporting to be the clerk of the steamer A. O. Tylor, called at the store of Springer & Whiteman, wholesale grocers and commission merchants, No. 18 West Front street, and presented a freight bill to the amount of $500 on some turpentine, and duly receipted. A check was handed him for the amount, on the Commercial Bank, and he left the office. Soon after he presented a bill at the counting-room of Boyle & Co., wholesale grocery and liquor dealers, No. 59 East Second street.

This was for freight on a lot of alcohol. He vas told however, that a quantity of the alcohol had leaked, or evaporated, during the trip and that they should demand a deduction on the bill. The pseudo clork said in reply, that he would step down to the boat and see if the Captain would submit to a deduction. In about ten minutes he returned and said that it was all right, and that the boat was willing to bear a certain per centage. The sum of three hundred dollars was then paid him. Soon after, Capt. Collier, of the A. O. Tylor, called at these stores with freight bills, and was astounded to hear that they had both been paid. An investigation which ensued, developed the fact that his name had been forged, and the money collected on false bills. The check was presented at the Commercial Bank and cashed. The forgery must have been committed by some one personally and intimately acquainted with the affairs of the boat.

Napoleon in Lombardy--His Address to the People.

The following is the text of the address of the French Emperor to the people of Northern Italy:
"Italians -- The fortune of war having support my slly, the King of Sardinia, the for me to do so. Your enemies, who are also mine, endeavored to diminish the sympathy which was felt in Europe for your cause by making it be believed that I only made war from personal ambition, or to aggrandize the territory of France. If there are men who do not comprehend their epoch, I am not of the number. In the enlightened state of public opinion there is more grandeur to be acquired by the moral influence which is exercised than by fruitless conquests, and that moral influwith pride in contributing to restore to freedom one of the finest parts of Europe.

Your reception has already proved to me that you have understood me. I do not come here with the preconceived system of dispos-sessing the sovereign, nor to impose my will on you. My army will only occupy itself with two things—to combat your enemies and main-tain internal order. It will not throw any ob-stacles in the way of the legitimate manifestations of your wishes. Providence sometimes favors nations as well as individuals, by giving it a sudden opportunity for greatness, but it is on condition that it knows how to profit by it. Profit then, by the fortune which is offered to you to obtain your independence. Organize yourselves militarily. Fly to the standard of King Victor Emanuel, who has already so nobly shown you the path of honor. Remember that without discipline there can be no army. Be to-day only soldiers, to-morrow you will be the free citizens of a great country."

ADDRESS OF NAPOLEON TO THE ARMY. Cone of Silbernoole plead guilty in the Police Court, yesterday morning, to selling beer on Sunday, and was fined $10 and costs.

Ceristian Cook, a German, was arrested on Wednesday, for an assault committed over a year ago. He will have a hearing before the Police Court, this morning.

Soldiers: A month ago, confiding in the efforts of diplomacy, I still hoped for the maintenance of peace, when suddenly the invasion of Piedmont by the Austrian troops called us to arms. We were not ready. Men, horse, material and supplies were wanting, and we had, in order to assist our allies, to pass in small divisions beyond the Alps before an enemy formidable and prepared beforehand.

The danger was great; the energy of the nation and your courage supplied all; France has again found her old virtues, and, united in one feeling and for one object, she has shown the power of her resources and the strength of her patriotism. It is now only ten days since operations commenced, and the Piedmontese territory has already been cleared of the invaders. The allied army has fought four combats and gained a decisive victory, which has opened to it the gates of the capital of Lombardy. You have put more than 35,000 Austrians hars de combat, taken 17 cannon, 2 colors and 8,000 prisoners; but all is not terminated; you will have more struggles to support and obsta-cles to overcome. I rely on you. Courage, then, brave soldiers of the Army of Italy! Your forefathers from above contemplate you

nishes a stirring account of the battle of Magenta. He thus refers to the sufferings of the wounded and the dying after the battle: You never saw such a frightful scene of carnage as on all this ground, which the Austrians defended inch by inch, but had to leave at last. It is like the remains of a great rag fair; shakees, knapsacks, muskets, shees, cloaks, tunics, linen all stained with blood, and speaking of the obstinate resistance even now, when the greater part of the wounded have been removed and the dead mostly buried. At the station the surgeons were in attendance to apply the first dressing, and the trains from Milan went to and fro to carry them off. The trains consisted of nothing but third class carriages and goods wagons, partly covered, partly open. Those who were only slightly wounded and could walk, were put into the carriages, while the others were laid in the goods wagons, which had been made as soft as the circumstances admitted, by putting straw and bay at the bottom. To these the unfortu-nate wretches were carried, in agonies of pain, caused by the movement. A large barrel of cooling drink, made of water and syrup, was near, as well as another filled with wine, with which to assuage the fiery thirst caused by their wounds. Boughs were cut to make an awning over the open goods trucks, so as to protect their miserable inmates from the rays of a real Italian sun.

This station and the railway train itself

were certainly the most shocking scenes of misery which one can possibly conceive. It was the darker side of a brilliant victory—looking the darker side of a brilliant victory—looking behind the scenes by daylight; wounded in all stages of agony and pain, only half clad, torn, dusty and muddy, in their own blood. The priests walking about with the visitioum to administer the last sacrament to the dying; the glazed eye of death in some, showing that they had ceased to suffer; the working eyes of others and the knashing priest before them others and the kneeling priest before them, showing that they were on the point of sigh-ing their last; near them were others, whom you would have thought dead had it not been for the perceptible movement of the eye and convulsive twist of the limb. You became involuntarily silent when you entered and took off your cap at the sight of sc much misery. Even the lively French soldiers, who ministered to the wants of these defaced specimens of humanity, became grave, and this dead silence was only broken from time to time by the solemn words of the priest, a faint sob, a franchischick of pain or a west sigh. tic shrick of pain, or a weak sigh. You forgot almost that there was a victory to redeem this dark scene, and these men, who would other-wise have peacefully followed their domestic occupations, were summoned to expose them-selves to all this for a cause which is not their own, which they know nothing about, nor care for. It was, indeed, a hard lot.

But it was, above all, when the wounded had to be moved to the carriages, that the neighsorhood became almost intolerable. Such shricks, such pale faces, contracted by pain, such torn limbs! The soldiers ordered to transport them seemed to forget everything in their anxiety to alleviate the pain of the suf-ferers. The philanthropist would have been touched by so much care, and the cynic might have speered at the idea that the very men who made the wounds should new try to cure the mischief, ready to begin again. Before starting a new distribution of drink took place, for which there was a craving. At last the train was off, and the noise of the train drawned all others, while a few turns of the wheels took us out of sight of the station. On our arrival at Milan a number of volunteer nurses were already waiting, with glasses of lemonade to assuage the burning thirst of a passage of more than an hour.

Milan truly rejoiced at the retreat of the Austrians and the entry of the French. The corps of the Duc de Magenta, the victors of the battle of Magenta, had entered Milan previously. The news of the arrivat of Napoleon and Victor Emanuel spread with the quickness of lightning, and was made patent by one frantic shout of joy, with which I might almost say the whole town gave vent to its feelings; the thousands who were already thronging the streets began with one impulse to hurry to the direction from which the shout to hurry to the direction from which the shout first arose. The scene itself, while the two thraldom.

There were strong rumors that Prussia will issue some decisive announcement in the course of a few days.

According to the prevalent conjecture, peace is to be proposed to the Emperor Napoleon on certain conditions, and if those are refused. Fermany is to enter into the war. Under the eiceumstances, there is a great anxiety and stagnation in all commercial cities.

The Times also says that Russia is making sirlike preparations at all her naval depots. The neva division of the fleet is reported to number eighty eight first-class ships; and the Baltic fleet, thirty five sail of the line, of which fourteen are screw steamers, is at Constadt.

The Times accounts for the recent shipments of gold from St. Petersburg to London, as pay-ment for machinery made in America and else where. Large Russian orders are lying still unexe cuted in England.

The Daily News thinks that the Cabinet is not yet complete, and complains of the man ner in which Mr. Milner Gibson has been moved from post to post to make room for the WASHINGTON, June 30 .- Our ex-Minister to Washington, June 30.—Our ex-Minister to Spain (Dodge) has published a card, in which he says that while the prospect of acquiring Cuba by purchase, under the present circumstances, is inauspicious, he has never even intimated that the propositionin any way involved the honor of Spain, or that the purchase might not at a future period be effected. He believer the course recommended by the President will lead to the consummation of that object by honorable negotiation.

The elk in ques-tion are only three years old, an age at which horses are not at all fit for use, yet Mr. Ray mond assures us that he actually travelled a far as one hundred miles in a single day. Mr. R. is on his way to Vermont with his novel team. The clk have now upon their heads, horns three feet in length, which have been Madane McMahon.—The Emperor's dis patch with the news of the victory of Magenta contained no less than eight hundred words. It was opened at St. Cloud and deciphered by M. Danias Hinard, in the presence of the Em press and the guests who had been dining with her. When the translator came to the passage relating to Gen. McMahon, "who, as always, was first in the field," he stopped a moment, owing to a difficulty in making out the cipher; Madame McMahon, who was listening intently, fancied that this hesitation was the prelude to terrible revelations, and fainted away. It must have been a great relief to the lady to find that she was a duchess instead of a widow.
